

Genre:
Historical Fiction,
Evidence from the Text

Name: _____

Title: _____

Author: _____

Historical Fiction: Evidence from the Text

Page	Examples

Note: Writers of historical fiction include details that help readers realize that the story is taking place in the past. For example, they describe the way characters do things and the place in which they live. They may include real events from history even though the characters are fictional. They may have characters use language that show the way people talked in the time. List details that the writer has included to make the past seem real to readers.