

Name: _____

Title: _____

Author: _____

Foreshadowing
Clues	What Happened

Note: Often, a writer will provide some clues that help you realize something is about to happen in the story. The clues foreshadow events and even the end of the story. Sometimes you notice these clues while reading and make good predictions about what is going to happen. Sometimes you do not understand the foreshadowing until the event has happened or the end has come, but it is interesting to think about how the writer provided these clues. In the second column, write something that happened in the story. In the first column, list some clues that did (or might have) helped you predict what was going to happen.